On 12 August 2018 as the glorious occasion of Her Majesty Queen Sirikit of King Rama IX's Birthday

Dear Mom,

How are you? I hope you are happy up there in heaven. It has been two years since you passed away but I still remember all the memories we shared. On this day, I can't help but feel sad, mom. I feel sad that I cannot hug and kiss you anymore. I'm sad that I can no longer tell you my problems. But despite all that sadness, I still feel a little bit of because of all my good memories of you. I remember that you are a strong woman. When you got sick, you stayed strong for the family. Every time we saw you, you always put on a smile that could light up the world. I remember that you are a helpful, honest and sincere woman. Remember that time when I had to do a presentation in class? I was so nervous that I might not do a good job. When I came to see you at the hospital, you did your best to cheer me up. You patiently listened to my presentation and gave me advice. You smiled and clapped your hands and showed me that you were my biggest fan. I will never forget your smile that day, mom, even when it was two days later that you passed away. On this special day, I want to thank you for everything. Thank you giving me all that I need. Thank you for helping me grow up to be the person I am today. I also would like to say sorry for all the mistakes I've done. I'm sorry for being stubborn and for making you worry. Mom, I want to tell you that you don't have to worry about me. I promise to be a good daughter. I will take care of father and I will do my best to not give him stress. I will do my best to study hard and get good grades, so you that you and father will be proud of me. I hope you always have a big smile on your face when you look down to see me and father. I hope you are happy. I miss you, mom. Nobody can ever replace your warm hugs. I really can't say more except..."Thank you for everything." I love you, my angel. With love and take care.

Love,

Dittita Boonruen (Room 8)

Dear Mom,

Mom, I want to tell you that I love you, I can't express in words how much you mean to me. Every time I think of you I am so thankful because you always encourage me if I am down. You always tell me that "No one is the winner, no one is the loser", and "There is always tomorrow". I remember those reminder many times, and now, I truly understand what you really want to teach me to not giving up. Mom, you are not only be my mother, but you are everything to me. You told me not to love you very much, but I want you to love and take care of yourself more than me. You deserve to be loved because you, mom has given your unconditional love to me and my brother. In that, I respect you so dearly. No one guides me to be a good and strong person. I like the way you are. You are very sociable, active and hard-working and talkative too. You always know whether I lie or tell the truth, you also know even if I want to keep a little secret. Sometime, I don't listen to you, but you always understand and make me feel comfortable. I want to be like you mom who is very confident and brave. Mom, I love you so much, I say this not because today is Mother's day, but every day of my life. I promise to be a good daughter, but I can't promise to be a perfect one. I want you to be proud of me as I am so proud of you as my mom. You are the best mom forever.

Dear Mom,

Mom, you are the one who always does everything for me. Even though you may not be the best for everyone but you are the best for me and the most important person in my life. I am not shy of telling others that I'm a daughter of a vendor. "Vendor" is another career that many people do not desire as a profession. I am aware that your occupation is not seen as the "best" or "most promising" in the society. However, I couldn't be more proud to be your daughter, a vendor's daughter, who is able to study at such a good school like this. I know how tiring your job is but you are the most patient and selfless person I've ever seen. You sleep at midnight and still manage to get up early in the morning to do your work. You never complain about working day and night even if you have to do the same things repeatedly every day. How can you do that mom? I know that you always think that you need to work hard to make more money to support our family and most especially to be able to send me to this school. Though you work hard, you still have time for me. The love that you give is full of sincerity, good intention and care. I admit that I often make mistakes, but you always forgive me and stay by my side no matter what, listen to my problems and give your support all the time. You rarely have time to take care of yourself. In spite of that, you are the most beautiful woman in my eyes. Our family may not be as wealthy as other families, but I am greatly blessed to have such a good and loving family. For now what I can do is to be a good student so that I can somehow relieve your exhaustion and show my deep gratitude towards you. Though it is just a small thing compared to what you have done for me, I will do it to make you happy and proud of me someday. Lastly, I want to thank you for being the incredible woman you are. Thank you for everything.

I love you Mom!
